Arbor Day...

Congratulations to Sam Westpy and Chloe Hoffnagle for a job well done in the Poetry category of the contest taking 2nd place and Honorable Mention honors respectively.

Congratulations to Shannon MacMaster and Camrym Isaksen for their performance in the Poster portion of the contest winning 1st and 2nd place respectively.

Thank you to all participants.

Southern Games 2012

On March 23rd, the Riptides staged their own version of the Hunger Games in celebration of the movie release of Suzanne Collins' novel. A staggering number of students read one or more of the books in the series for their independent reading project. A boy and a girl were selected to represent each "District" as tributes. The Districts (class periods) then planned an entire campaign including propaganda posters, costumes, interview questions, and a coat of arms to represent the District. All of the Districts and Tributes did an amazing job. In the end, District 6—the forestry district—emerged victorious behind the steam of their tributes Liam Maxwell and Miranda Dougherty! Excellent job, Riptides!
