

The Southern Regional School-to-Career Plan

A comprehensive career investigation experience
for students in grades 7-12

The Southern Regional School District's comprehensive School-to-Career Program is embedded in all content areas. Special transitional services are in place to extend the fullest benefit of the program to students with disabilities. The program is designed to ensure the personal, academic and social success of all students. The iPlan for Success introduces the plan to incoming students in the fall of 7th grade.

As planned, the School-to-Career Program is spiraled throughout curricula in grades 7-12 to offer students a plethora of experiences to explore career development opportunities. In addition, the program affords students the ability to assess personal aptitudes and interests in order for them to have the tools with which to make relevant personal, educational and career choices.

The Be Successful Handbook Overview

“The Be Successful Handbook” is a comprehensive School-to-Career discovery program intended for classroom use. It has been developed as a CD for easy access to each component, integration of the SCANS and New Jersey Workplace Readiness Standards, and access to relevant hyper-links.

The handbook is the result of a New Jersey Chamber of Commerce Initiative, an I.D.E.A.S. Grant from the New Jersey Department of Education, a developing SRSD School-to-Career Plan, and extensive classroom experience. It offers the classroom teacher access to school-to-career lesson plans and activities, research, surveys, web sites, simulations, portfolio components, and career related vignettes.

The lessons in the handbook may be used independently of one another or as a comprehensive unit. There are three units that follow the developmental guidance format:

Who Am I? This is a self-discovery unit that makes the connection between academic and career success. Included are: a Learning Style Inventory, Multiple Intelligence Inventory, Personality Survey, Academic Success Survey, Character Trait Survey and various on-line survey instruments. The information gleaned from participating in the Career Center’s Discover Program and this unit will begin the process of completing a Personal Career Planner that can be used as part of the Students’ Career Portfolios.

Where Am I Going? In this unit students are introduced to the value of goal setting and the writing of a personal mission statement. A Career Research Paper, based on the results of surveys and personal research in The Discover Program, culminates the unit.

How Do I Get There? This unit is the most comprehensive; it includes: workplace readiness soft skill developmental activities, a tool to match the students’ relevant Career Cluster with core curriculum courses, electives, extracurricular activities, on-the job experiences and a culminating assessment piece. It offers students investigative experiences and templates for all components of the job/college/career application process.

Each Unit Offers:

- Teacher Materials – Resource information for the unit
- PowerPoint/Overhead Lesson Presentation Pages
- Student Materials- Applications of the Lesson

Also Included Are:

- Final Job Assimilation Assessment
- Career Portfolio Components
- Assessment Rubrics
- Career Vignettes

Unit I- WHO AM I? Teacher Materials

The unexamined life is not worth living. - Socrates

When you look in a mirror, do you KNOW the person you see? Does the same person look back at you if the location of the mirror changes from home to school or work?

“You are who you are when no one is looking.” Many people throughout the ages have agonized through the process of self-discovery to find out about the person they are because of the valuable insights that can be gained from the process. Sometimes the mask people wear or the person they pretend to be hides the real person even from himself/herself.

Native Americans modeled the self-discovery process for us as they often spent six months alone on a “vision quest.” While such a journey is virtually impossible in today’s world, the concept is still sound; knowledge of ones inner self can provide a healthy perspective of how to plan for the future. What better way to choose a career path than to match it to your likes, interests, values, and successes!

Every experience in your life is being woven into the person you will ultimately be. Your volunteer work, hobbies, work experience, relationships, and schoolwork hold valuable clues to help you choose a successful, enjoyable career path.

To aide you in the process of self-discovery, this unit will lead you to begin the process of developing a Personal Career Plan:

- Identify your learning style, dominant intelligences, and personality traits and relate them to academic and workplace success
- Identify those behaviors that are limiting your academic progress and create a plan to correct them
- Identify the 10 Most Desirable Workplace Success Traits

Unit I- Who Am I?

Goal: Lead students to discover who they are and to match what they learn about themselves to the development of successful career traits and to make a relevant career choice.

A. Learning Styles Inventory, Multiple Intelligences, Personality Trait and Character Inventories

Through these instruments students will ascertain their dominant learning styles and intelligence and understand how to bridge conflict caused by a difference in a teaching vs. a learning style.

These instruments can be used:

- As PowerPoint presentations for dissemination of information
- As PowerPoint presentations to initiate classroom discussion
- Independently by students as exploratory tools
- Independently by students as exploratory tool with evaluation of responses as classroom or group discussions

Learning Styles Inventory A

Learning Styles Inventory B

Multiple Intelligences Survey @ www.surfaquarium.com/miinvent.htm

Personality Inventory @ www.kiersey.com

B. Workplace/Academic Success/Character Traits

These surveys will help students evaluate their classroom behaviors and academic progress and relate them to their personal character traits.

These instruments can be used:

- To develop strategies to improve personal achievement
- As a PowerPoint Presentation to initiate classroom discussion
- As a Student Success Sheet for self-evaluation
- For group or classroom discussion
- To develop intervention strategies to strengthen weak areas
- As an introduction to Workplace Readiness- the ultimate goal of the program is for students to develop these traits
- (Suggestion: Have groups make their own list first and then compare to actual list
 - ✓ Prioritize the traits and defend the position of each
 - ✓ Identify a person who exemplifies the trait and relate success of the person)
- As a springboard for readings on character, newspaper articles about men and women with/without character
- As a daily character word discussion

Unit I - Who Am I? What Career Choices Match My Learning Style?

VISUAL LEARNERS: THINK VISUAL FOR RESIDUAL

- Think in pictures
- Remember events as illustrations
- Learn from maps, charts, graphs, photos, drawings
- Understand better after seeing a video
- Learn from note taking

Classroom Implications:

- Take notes, take more notes, take notes even during discussions
- Outline
- Create maps, drawings, illustrations as you take notes
- Use graphic organizers
- Sit up front to avoid distractions

What would be some viable career choices for visual learners?

AUDITORY LEARNERS: WHAT THEY HEAR BECOMES CLEAR

- Learn from discussions
- Like when people talk to them
- Like lectures
- Listen to the radio
- Talk through information
- Listen well to the viewpoints of others

Classroom Implications:

- Read text aloud (if not in class, at home)
- Tape lectures
- Participate in group discussions
- Hold informal interviews
- Ask for paired learning situations

What would be some career choices for auditory learners?

KINESTHETIC: MOVE TO PROVE

- Like hands-on experiences
- Do well in lab classes
- Like projects
- Learn from field trips
- Learn from exploratory activities

Classroom Implications:

- Move around whenever possible
- Cut out representations of concepts
- Participate in projects whenever possible
- Put your learning to a beat or music if possible
- Act out a situation

What would be some career choices for kinesthetic learners?

Unit I – Who Am I? Multiple Intelligences

How do multiple intelligences match learning style?
Is it possible for multiple intelligences not to overlap??

VISUAL: Think in Pictures

People with visual intelligence are good at:

- Designing things
- Puzzles
- Directions
- Maps
- The Arts
- Language Arts
- Manipulating Images

Career Matches:

- Air traffic control
- Navigators
- Graphic artists
- Engineers/architects
- Artists/Interior designers

People with verbal intelligence are good at:

- Speaking
- Listening
- Explaining
- Negotiating
- Persuading
- Analyzing

Career Matches:

- Politicians
- Human resource counselors
- Negotiators
- Teachers
- Translators
- Authors
- Lawyers
- Translators

KINESTHETIC: Coordinated

People with kinesthetic intelligence exhibit:

- Grace
- Balance
- Coordination
- Effortless Movement

Career Matches:

- Actor
- Sports
- Teacher
- Firefighter
- Carpenter/mechanic/welder

MUSICAL: Rhythmic

People with musical intelligence have a sense of beat and can detect it in all aspects of life.

Career Match:

- Musicians
- Singers
- Composers
- Producers
- Disc jockeys

MATHEMATICAL: Analytical

People with mathematical intelligence think in a logical, abstract manner.

Career Match:

- Mathematicians
- Scientists
- Engineers
- Accountants
- Computer programmers

INTRAPERSONAL: Know themselves well

People with intrapersonal intelligence study and analyze themselves.

Career match:

- Analysts
- Theorists
- Philosophers

INTERPERSONAL: Empathetic

People with interpersonal intelligence are:

- Empathetic toward others
- Open-minded
- Caring
- Cooperative
- Peacemakers

Career Match:

- Counselors
- Teachers
- Medical profession
- Social workers

NATURALISTS: Understand nature.

People who have naturalistic intelligence are concerned with the environment.

Career Match:

- Forest ranger
- City planner
- Botanist
- Environmentalist/Nature preserve caretaker

What's Your Learning Style?

Identifying Learning Style: How do you learn best?

Not everyone learns the same way. The different ways people learn are called their learning styles. Learning styles are important because learning becomes more difficult when styles and teaching methods clash.

The learning setting can neither support nor frustrate your learning style. For example, you may learn best through hands-on experiences and will not learn as much from a lecture class. Some students can learn about a subject by reading; others need pictures, maps, and graphs before they can really understand the material.

A good way to understand learning styles is by finding out about your own. The following survey is designed for anyone who wants to know about his or her learning style. You may want to have your parents complete the survey.

What's Your Learning Style?

Answer each question either “true” or “false”. Your first spontaneous response is probably the truest answer you can give.

How should I study?

Auditory Learners

How to Study: An Auditory Learner would rather learn by listening. You like to be told things. Reading in silence can sometimes leave you cold. You should study with someone else and stop, every once in a while, to talk over the information with that person. If you are studying alone or taking a test, imagine hearing the words in your mind, or ask a teacher if you are allowed to read the test out loud, softly, to yourself.

Visual Learners

How to Study: You probably absorb new materials better by reading it. You prefer printed handouts and more examples on the board, something you can relate to visually. Ask your teachers for this, they will be more receptive than you think. If you are in a lecture class, YOU MUST TAKE NOTES! Ask to have things diagramed. Look for films, books, or articles on things you did not quite grasp in class. Try the Internet, the library, and the video store.

Multisensory Learners

How to Study: You like to learn in an environment where there are lots of things going on. Hands-on learning works best for you. You prefer to see, hear, and touch something for it to make sense to you. If possible, do your work on a computer. Watch films of the information you want to learn. Use language labs that use both recorded and visual materials. See if a book you have to read for English is available on audiotape, listen as you are reading.

Work Well on Your Own

How to Study: You can handle a research project or paper on your own. You tend to be a high achiever in areas that interest you. You don't need a lot of feedback while you're working, but you definitely seek recognition when you are done. If you don't get it, ask for it!

Wants Feedback While Working

How to Study: You work best on short assignments, even if you must do more of them. Rather than long texts, you prefer workbooks that break things down into bite-sized pieces. You may need feedback while you are working: ask for it! You may want to examine your feelings about being told what to do and separate them from the learning challenge that confronts you. Often, a student who is hostile toward authority figures may appear lazy or irresponsible, when in fact, that is not the case at all. Try to communicate clearly to your teachers so that they don't get the wrong impression.

A MOVER

How to Study: You are probably miserable sitting in the library or at your desk for a long period of time. You need breaks – if only to stretch – every half-hour or so. Listen to your body and take them. If you are confined to a desk, use this exercise: inhale deeply and imagine the air flowing through your body, right down to your toes. Then, exhale, drawing the air back up through your toes, legs and body and out your mouth. Relax your jaw since that is where tension tends to build. A few deep breaths may satisfy the urge to wander, since there are going to be times when you need to sit quietly and work on an assignment, or listen to a lecture.

A SITTER

How to Study: Sitting still, often in an uncluttered environment, allows you to absorb material without losing your train of thought. Study when and where the only interruptions will be ones you choose.

MORNING LEARNER

How to Study: If you are a morning learner, you may lose energy and wind down by mid-afternoon. Hopefully, your most challenging courses are in the morning. Don't start your homework on Sunday night! You might consider setting the alarm clock half an hour early to get up and review your notes. Morning is a powerful learning time for you!

AFTERNOON LEARNER

How to Study: Being an afternoon learner does not mean you are lazy; you are simply in a tough spot with a biological preference that most school can not accommodate. You need to use your learning strengths to your benefit. You reach your peak in late morning or afternoon. You need to plan your most challenging work during that period. Rather than going home from school and turning on the television, it would be smarter to use the afternoon hours to complete your homework.

Learning Styles:

What the results indicate...

DO YOU LEARN BEST BY HEARING? Shade the “∇” next to the following statements if you answered “True” to numbers 1, 6, 12, 16, and 21.

If you shaded four or five “∇’s”, you learn best by hearing. You are a strong “Auditory Learner”.

If you answered “True” to only one or two of these statements, you may be better when you see what you need to learn. In all categories, if you score a “3”, this means you are adaptable and you learn when teaching is done in a variety of ways.

DO YOU LEARN BEST BY SEEING? Shade the “○” next to the following statements if you answered “True” to numbers 2, 7, 11, 17, and 22.

If you shaded four or five “○’s”, you learn best by seeing. You are a strong “Visual Learner”.

DO YOU LEARN BEST IN A MULTISENSORY APPROACH? IF you answered “True” to only one or two statements in both hearing and seeing areas, you probably prefer multisensory instruction.

DO YOU WORK WELL ON YOUR OWN? Circle the “X” of the following statements if you answered “True” to numbers 8, 18, and 23. Also circle the “X” if you answered “False” to numbers 3 and 13. If you scored four or five boxes, you can handle a research project or paper on you own.

DO YOU NEED FEEDBACK WHILE YOU ARE WORKING? If you scored on or two “X’s” you work best on short assignments.

ARE YOU A “MOVER” OR A “SITTER”? Shade the “□” next to the following statements if you answered “True” to numbers 9, 14, and 19. Also shade the “□” next to the statement if you answered “False” to numbers 4 and 24.

You are a “Mover” if you scored four or five “□’s”.

You are a “Sitter” if you scored one or two “□’s”.

WHEN DO YOU LEARN BEST? Shade the “↔” next to the following statements if you answered “True” to numbers 5, 15, and 25. Also shade the “↔” next to the statement if you answered “False” to numbers 10 and 20.

You are a “Morning Learner” if you scored four or five “↔’s”.

You are an “Afternoon Learner” if you scored one or two “↔’s”.

Unit I-Workplace Traits and Skills Checklist

Who Am I?

Student Success Sheet

After discussing the character traits that have been identified as necessary for workplace, academic and life-long success, place a check next to those you possess and give an example of a time that you demonstrated each checked trait. To the right of all non-checked traits, write down a step you will take to begin to develop that trait and add a time frame to your step. To the left of all traits match the character trait they exemplify.

The following is a list of study characteristics that may have contributed to problems you may be having in one or more of your courses. Evaluate yourself in your classes and place a 0, 1, or 2 next to each reason.

Remember that academic success is directly related to success in a career. Plan now to be successful.

- 0 Not a reason for failure/difficulty
1 A minor reason for failure/difficulty
2 A major reason for failure/difficulty

- | | |
|-------|---|
| _____ | Insufficient homework completed |
| _____ | Poor attendance |
| _____ | Frequently late |
| _____ | No interest in the subject matter |
| _____ | Too difficult |
| _____ | Too many missed or incomplete assignments |
| _____ | Personality clash with teacher |
| _____ | Poor organizational skills |
| _____ | Give up too easily |
| _____ | Lack of class participation |
| _____ | Low test or quiz scores |
| _____ | Fell behind and couldn't catch up |
| _____ | Didn't stay for extra help when needed |
| _____ | Problems at home |
| _____ | Personal problems |
| _____ | Misbehavior in class |
| _____ | Class moves too quickly |

1. Choose two #2 reasons and write down a plan to correct them. Be specific! Be accountable to a friend or family member while you are “working” your plan.

Continue to work on additional problems.

2. Are you having the same difficulty or success in all of your classes or is it limited to one or two? Why?

3. Match a character trait to each of the reasons listed for academic difficulty. Discuss.

Unit II

Where Am I Going?

Mission Statement/Goal Setting

- Research has proven that people who develop written goals are usually more successful in life. There is an aphorism that states, “If you don’t know where you are going, be careful because you might end up there.”
- To help students develop a mission statement and set goals to reach it is to give them a road map through life and a standard by which to base life’s decisions.
- There are many ideas about what encompasses a good mission statement and many ways to lead students through the writing process. The plan presented in Where Am I Going? is one that fits best in the classroom? Obviously, if you wish to add additional steps and time spent, you can certainly do so. There are links to many websites dedicated to mission statement writing.
- Students, who are expected to write goals and a mission statement, should have already been through the Discover Program as 9th graders or should have completed the relevant surveys and self-evaluations available in Who Am I? It would be impossible to write a meaningful mission statement without going through a self- discovery process first.
- A creative final copy could also illustrate the significance. For example, my mission statement is from an acronym using EAGLE; an eagle could easily represent my statement.

NOTEWORTHY:

Personally, I believe that writing a mission statement should precede goal setting. If the mission statement is the “ultimate goal” in life, all other goals should support achieving it. However, others believe that goal setting comes first and even others don’t believe that a mission statement is a goal.

As a teacher you may wish to model the process with your students. I spent a few weeks refining mine and found it to be a very enlightening and worthwhile experience.

Goals and mission statement cannot be written in a day. Students need to write a rough draft and then be encouraged to carry it with them for a week and make additions, deletions and/or corrections as they reflect upon it.

After storing the goals and mission statement, each student should make a smaller version to carry and refer to often when making life decisions; the reverse side of The Pocket Resume might be a good place to keep it. Discuss the importance of evaluating decisions using the mission statement as the standard.

Encourage students to periodically evaluate goals and re-adjust as life's situations change. For example, my goals of rearing my children well are not applicable now that they are grown; I may transfer those goals to those of having a positive influence on my yet to be born grandchildren.

The Mission Statement may or may not change. A well-written one can be accomplished in various ways, thus, if a career choice changes, ones life mission can be accomplished through a different avenue. Example: Mission: To Make A Difference with My Life. Perhaps, the person thinks he will be a doctor and realizes this is not a realistic goal; he can make a difference in another way.

The Presentation Pages present the principles of goal setting and mission statement writing, career interest, and career research as they delineate the components of each. They can be printed for student use after the presentation.

The Discover Program provides a tool for students to match their interests, abilities and values to a career cluster. Discover is available either in the Career Center or online after obtaining a login from the center.

A sample Career Research paper provides a format for Career Research. It is based on the premise that the student has identified his or her career cluster. All components of the paper can be accessed in Unit III.

Students should be encouraged to use the World of Work Map during course selection and when considering extracurricular activities, electives or core courses.

Career Investigation/Defense

- Students will choose a career cluster based on the results of their Self- Investigative Profile
- Students will successfully complete a career research paper of their chosen cluster
- Students will defend their career choice by relating the information obtained from the career research to their Self-Investigative Profile
- Students will successfully apply the information learned during the career investigative process to successfully complete a Job Simulation Process

Students will successfully present and defend their career choice:

1. Choose a career cluster based on the results of the Self-Investigative Process; choose a relevant career path.
2. Review/write abstracts on three articles related to the chosen career path.
3. Prepare an initial or updated resume/mini-resume of chosen career.
4. Prepare a Research Paper with the following components:
 - A. Job Description
 - B. Opportunities for employment based on Want-Ads/Job Market Prospectus
 - C. Salary Range
 - D. Educational Requirements
 - E. Related career choices
 - F. Discussion of three qualities/aspects of this occupation that the student liked and how they match with Self-Investigative Profile
 - G. Discussion of three qualities/aspects of this occupation that the student dislikes and the reasons
 - H. The most compelling reason for selecting this career path.
5. Prepare and present an oral presentation of Career Defense:
 - A. Relationship to Self-Investigative Profile
 - B. Economic Feasibility
 - C. Job Prospectus
 - D. Discussion of three qualities/aspects of this occupation that the student liked and how they match with Self-Investigative Profile
 - E. Discussion of three qualities/aspects of this occupation that the student dislikes and the reasons
 - F. The most compelling reason for selecting this career path.

6. Prepare visuals of:
 - A. Mission Statement
 - B. Career Cluster/values/interests/abilities/courses/volunteer activities
 - C. Charts of any of the following: Market Prospectus/career path/levels of education as it relates to salary, etc.

- Activity 10: Discuss and write a Cover Letter.
- Activity 11: Complete a Job Application.
- Activity 12: Discuss and conduct an Interview.
- Activity 13: Write a Thank-you letter.
- Activity 14: Complete an outline for the research summation paper. See Ram's Researcher.
- Activity 15: Edit the rough draft of the paper. Write the final copy. See Rubric.
- Activity 16: Orally present the completed project.

This Research Paper Format has been adapted from one used by
Mrs. Jean Piscopo at SRHS in English III.

Activity 1:

Simple Skills Inventory

- Draw a large T on a blank piece of paper.
- Label left side with skills/jobs you did not enjoy and right with skills/jobs you did enjoy.
- Decide what kind of related activities appear and choose a word that best describes them.
 - Example: work outdoors
- Using colored pencils, connect both sides of your T with words that relate.
- Select words or activities from each group that you would like to be part of your “dream job.”

Activity 3: Taking Stock

1. What are your short term goals?
2. What are your long term goals?

Likes:

3. What are your three favorite subjects?
4. What are your three favorite extracurricular activities?
5. What do you do for recreation/hobbies?

Accomplishments:

6. Three subjects in which you have done well:
7. Other skills you learned in school.
8. Skills you learned outside of school:
9. Things you do well naturally:

Activity 4:

Explore the Internet and search for career information using specific web sites. Print a hard copy of all vital data.

Unit II- How Do I Get There? Mission Statement

Why do I Need a Mission Statement?

- If you don't know where you are going, how will you know when you get there?
Cheshire Cat
- It is a standard by which to measure life's decisions.
- It puts YOU in control of your life.
- It gives you a DESTINATION, thus, meaning.
- It is your "Life Quest"

CRITERIA:

- D- DESIRABLE
- Is it something you would want as your epitaph to represent your life?
 - Is it worth the total focus of your life' ambitions to achieve?
- E- ENERGY
- Does it fuel your actions?
 - Does it cause you to persevere to achieve it?
- S- SINCERE
- Is it just something that sounds good to others?
 - Does it come from your heart?
- T- TWO PARTS
- Does it tell what you life is about?
 - Does it encompass your values?
- I- INSPIRING
- Does its message fill you with a sense of purpose?
- N- NOW
- Is it written in the present tense?
 - Is it written as though it is already accomplished?
- A- ATTAINABLE
- Does it base your dreams in reality?
 - Can it be accomplished by YOU, without relying on anyone else?
- T- TIES
- Does it tie in with your goals?
 - Does it tie in with your interests, abilities, and values and match with the principles you accept in life.
- I- IMPRINT
- Does it have your signature on it?
 - Is it uniquely you or can it belong to anyone?
- O- ONE
- Is it written in one sentence?
 - Is it written in simple language?
 - Is it easily memorized?
- N- NUTSHELL
- Is it your life statement in a nutshell?

Unit II- Where Am I Going?

Why Be a Goal Setter?

- People who set goals are generally more successful
- Goal Setting puts one in control of his or her life
- Goal Setting gives one direction- a MAP
- Goal Setting gives one a standard of measurement

Criteria:

M-easurable

- All goals should have a time frame attached.
- All goals should have a beginning and ending criteria.

A-ttainable

- All goals should be able to be accomplished without depending on another. They should be personal goals.

P- ersonal

- Goals are not random action- set them in all areas of life: mental, spiritual, physical.
- They should lead one to develop into the person he or she wishes to become.

Examples:

- I will graduate from high school in four years with a 3.5 G.P.A.
- I will save $2,000 a year for three years toward my college fund.
- I will exercise at least 15 minutes every other day.

Unit II- Where Am I Going? Be A Goal Setter-

Student Success Sheet

You have been in the discovery stage of goal setting. By now you should have a good idea of your basic interests, abilities and values. During the process, you should have been able to match who you are with a relevant Career Cluster.

Goal setting is the second step in the process. It is the MAP by which you can utilize what you know about yourself to plan a direction and purpose for your life. It can also be used as also a tool to keep you focused and on course.

The Process:

1. On a separate sheet of paper, summarize what you find out about yourself from answering the following questions:

- What do I want from life?
- What do I value?
- What are my interests?
- What are my abilities?
- What do I really believe in?
- What traits do I really admire in people? Be specific.
- What do I want to accomplish with my life?
- What Career cluster is matched with my personality?
- What education do I need for my chosen career?
- What experiences will help develop the skills I need?
- What hobbies could I develop to add to my expertise?
- What personal habits do I need to work on?
- What personal hindrances need to be eliminated?
- What weaknesses need to be strengthened?
- Within what time frame can I accomplish this?

2. Using the guidelines for goal setting, begin to develop you life's goals. Write a draft and read it daily for the next week. Make revisions. Write a final draft when you are happy with the result.

3. A copy of your goals should be placed in a Career Portfolio. Keep another copy handy and refer to it often when making decisions. If something you're considering doesn't help you reach your goals, discard it!

Long Term Goals:

Where do you wish to be in 10 years?

Type of Goal	Steps to Achieve	Time Frame

Mid- Term Goals:

Where do you wish to be in 5 years?

These should help you accomplish your long-term goals.

Type of Goal	Steps to Achieve	Time Frame

Short Term Goals:

Where do you wish to be at the end of this year?

Type of Goal	Steps to Achieve	Time Frame

You can continue to develop weekly or daily goals as needed. It will feel great to be able to cross off those that are accomplished.

Unit III- How Do I Get There?

Service Learning- Teacher Materials

Why Should Service-learning Be Integrated Within the Curriculum?

Where is the learning in service learning?

How does this apply to career readiness?

“Service-Learning: a balance between service to the community and academic learning with the hyphen standing for the reflective piece in the process” (Eyler, 1999, p.4). “Service added to learning adds value to each and transforms both”(Honnet and Poulsen, 1989,p1).

Service learning uses community service as a vehicle to accomplish the goal of empowering students and those being served. It fills the service need, but also uses it as a foundation to examine oneself, societal problems, and future trends or consequences. Service learning also gives meaning to the information learned in the classroom as it is extended, applied and re-tooled using critical thinking skills. The service project is dictated by the needs of the community, as it should be valuable, significant, and necessary service, which has a real consequence to the community.

A well-organized service-learning project will become a classroom laboratory as it integrates the information and conceptual framework obtained in the classroom with opportunities to serve effectively in the community. It can be added to any curriculum as an extension of the learning process.

Goals:

- To provide authentic career exploration opportunities
- To provide a vehicle for the development of skills identified as necessary to workplace success
- To instill a sense of community responsibility and community involvement
- To provide the opportunity for students to further develop a caring character
- To provide an opportunity for students to realize and apply the concepts learned in the classroom to a project that will assist the community
- To provide an opportunity for the development of leadership potential
- To develop mutually beneficial community partnerships
- To connect curriculum to career success

STUDENT BENEFITS

- Development of Workplace Readiness Skills
- Awareness of workplace environment
- Deeper understanding

THE DISTRICT'S ROLE

- The SCHOOL-TO-CAREER COORDINATOR will confirm viable service-learning sites
- The STCC will identify students and/or faculty who will participate in the experience
- The STCC will obtain necessary permission for the experiences
- The Students & parents/Faculty will complete a service-learning agreement
- The STCC will provide a handbook that includes: expectations, forms, permission requirements, etc.
- The participants will de-brief the experience with the mentor and/or the School-to-Career Coordinator
- The experience will be analyzed and appropriate adjustments made
- Thank-you letters will be sent by the participant and the STCC

THE STUDENTS' ROLE

Essential Questions for Students:

- Why should I invest myself in the betterment of my community?
- What difference will my service make to others?
- What is the extent of what I am willing to invest to make a difference?
- What difference has the service of others made in my life?

Steps:

Noteworthy Assessments:

Journals are Required. Characteristics of a good journal are:

- ✓ “Gut” reactions
- ✓ Written first “in the raw” and later edited
- ✓ Entries after each experience
- ✓ Meditation of snapshots of sights, sounds, feelings, observations, successes, failures, feelings of empowerment, feelings of inadequacies, what impressed, what unnerved
- ✓ Are not a daily chronicle of events!

Sample Journal Assessment Questions:

Who am I as a member of society?

What responsibilities do I have to his society??

What can I do to better meet those responsibilities?

What has this experience revealed about myself?

Do I have more or less empathy than I did before volunteering?

What impact did this have on my willingness to serve?

With what attitude did I approach this experience, did I leave it with?

Has my motivation for volunteering changed? How?

How has this challenged stereotypes I had formed?

What strong lessons were learned? How?

What realizations or insights into societal problems do I know have that I didn’t previously?

Will this project change how you act in the future? How? Did you give enough of yourself or hold something back?

Were you open enough with others?

Did you care enough about others?

Did you take ownership of this project?

Has this challenged your philosophy of life? Do you know what your philosophy of life is? Is it important to know? What is it?

What would you change about the project?

What did you learn about the agency/people in charge?

What were the failures/successes/indecisions/decisive moments/doubts/empowerment experiences/humorous situations/frustrations/limitations/happiness/sadness?

Did you make a difference? How? How did that make you feel?

Compare/contrast the experience with classroom learning

Did I learn more or less than I could have during a classroom experience?

Could I have been effective without a sound academic background?

Would I have the same perspectives without classroom knowledge and experiences?

What were the over-arching issues that influenced the situation/problem/need?

Can those societal issues be changed/dealt with effectively? How?

Was it do-able in terms of time/resources/support?

How did you utilize your skills/values, learning styles/personality, throughout the experience?

Was there enough work for everyone?

Did this project conflict with work being done by any other groups?

Did you feel you were valuable and necessary?

Were there any fun times?

Were you excited to get involved? Were you still excited at the end?

Will this experience affect your future behavior, career choice?

Is the agency impacted by larger social/political sphere?

What do you predict for the future?

Did your research support what you experienced in the field?

Present the plan:

- Powerpoint Presentations
- Graphic displays
- Panel discussions
- Pictorial Account
- Handbook
- Personal Interview
- Oral presentation with visuals
- Research paper
- Reflective paper
- Others as determined by faculty mentor and student

SOUTHERN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT
SCHOOL-TO-CAREER
JOB EXPERIENCE
HANDBOOK

EXPLORATORY WORKPLACE EXPERIENCES

JOB-SHADOWING, INTERNSHIPS, AND MENTORSHIPS ARE EXPLORATORY WORKPLACE EXPERIENCES THAT ARE PROVIDED BY A SCHOOL-TO-CAREER PARTNERSHIP BETWEEN COMMUNITY WORKPLACE SITES AND THE SCHOOL DISTRICT.

THESE EXPERIENCES ARE DESIGNED TO GIVE STUDENTS THE OPPORTUNITY TO OBSERVE THE SKILLS AND ABILITIES NECESSARY TO PERFORM A SPECIFIC JOB AS WELL AS TO GAIN AN OVERALL PICTURE OF ALL ASPECTS OF A PARTICULAR CAREER FIELD.

GOALS:

- To develop a better understanding of the academic and work related requirements of the business community.
- To integrate the academic and work related requirements of the business community into the curriculum.

THE PLAN:

- The STC Committee will identify viable workplace sites
- The STC Coordinator will identify students and/or faculty who will participate in the exploratory experience
- The STC Coordinator will obtain necessary permission for the experiences
- The Students & parents/Faculty will complete a job experience agreement
- The School-to-Career Coordinator will provide a handbook that includes: expectations, forms, permission requirements, etc.
- The participants will de-brief the experience with the STC Committee and/or the School-to-Career Coordinator
- The experience will be analyzed and appropriate adjustments made
- Thank-you letters will be sent by the participant and the STC Coordinator

SCHOOL DISTRICT BENEFITS:

- Develop relevant partnerships with the business community
- Gain an authentic perspective of the current workplace requirements
- Provide motivation for academic success
- Lead students to obtain the benefits delineated below

BUSINESS COMMUNITY BENEFITS:

- Develop relevant partnerships with the school community
- Have opportunity to convey the current employee needs
- Gain realistic information about students' goals and expectations
- For internships, provide assistance for permanent staff to undertake a postponed project or to complete one that is underway
- To observe potential employees in the workplace environment
- Contribute to the development of a program to provide better prepared employees

STUDENT BENEFITS:

- Learn about important workplace readiness skills within the culture of the workplace
- Meet professionals involved in the identified career cluster
- Gain an understanding of how school success relates to workplace opportunities
- Develop a possible employment connection
- Understand the importance of punctuality, proper attire and professional behavior
- Learn about career opportunities
- Reduce stereo-typing
- Make a more informed career choice
- For internships: learn a new skill, develop a present skill, develop self-esteem, and develop confidence
- Motivation to reach or widen career goals
- Understand the relationship between school subjects and workplace tasks

TYPES OF EXPERIENCES

Job Shadow: This is an exploratory experience that gives students the opportunity to observe an employee in a workplace setting and to ask questions about the career field of the employee.

Duration: One day to one week

Participation: 7-12 Grade

Salary: Unpaid

Internship: This is a more involved exploratory experience that gives students the opportunity to actually participate in the work experience and meet professionals in a career field. The student often gains or develops a skill and has the opportunity to receive constructive criticism during the experience.

Duration: From a summer/quarter to a year-long experience

Participation: 10-12 grades

Salary: This may be unpaid for credit or paid as a part-time employee

Mentorship: This is a further extension of a relationship between a student and a career professional. A mentorship does not have to take place in a workplace setting, as it is a motivational relationship.

A mentor is a role model, advisor, coach, advocate, and constructive critic. He/she is a person who likes young people, is a non-judgmental listener, and is fair, honest, and open. Through a mentorship a student gains a broader picture of life and relationships. A good mentor will help a student to develop confidence, initiative, and will motivate the student to reach his potential. He/she will encourage the student to accept responsibility, make a realistic career choice, and generally support the student in developing and reaching future goals.

Duration: One year; ideally once per week

Participation: 9-12 grade

Salary: None

C.I.E.: See current curriculum of existing programs

C.B.E.: See current curriculum of existing programs

Service-Learning: See proposal

FACULTY JOB-SHADOWING EXPERIENCE
OBSERVATION WORKSHEET

Interview Questions: During the course of the observation, answering these questions will help you gain a fuller understanding of the requirements of the job you are observing. A compilation of answers will also help us develop a more comprehensive and relevant School-to-Career Curriculum. Please observe and report on as many as you can observe in the time provided:

1 If this employer could change three things about the entry level students entering this workplace, what would they be?

2 Are students from Southern well prepared as entry-level employees? What are the strengths you see? What areas need attention? (If not SRHS students, comment generally.)

3 What is considered standard workplace behavior or "soft skills" employees need to exhibit to be successful?

Ex. How important are attendance and punctuality? What are the consequences for being late or out too much? Is proper attire important to be successful in this job?

4 What specific academic skills do employees need to have attained to be successful?

5 How can we as educators work with you to better prepare our students for current workplace expectations?

For our purposes, the following areas are crucial. Please comment on how the following skills were used at this worksite. Be Specific. Give suggestions on how these skills can be better developed in your classroom setting;

Math:

Reading/Writing:

Oral Communication/Presentation Skills :

Technology:

Problem-Solving:

(organizing, creativity, decision-making, analyzing data, planning, interpreting, etc.)

People Skills:

(Team member, mediation, leadership, customer relations, teaching, working with diverse types of people, negotiation, constructive criticism- both giving and receiving)

Self-Management:

(Goal Setting, Responsibility, Punctuality, Dependability, Time-Management, Self-Evaluation)

As you prepare to consider how to integrate the academic and workplace skills into the lessons in your discipline?, you may also wish to take into consideration the following questions:

- Does school prepare a student to be successful in this career area? Academically? Socially? What can we do?
- How did the exhibited abilities, skills and values match with your expectations? Explain.
- What courses, volunteer experiences, extracurricular activities would help a student develop the skills needed for this job? Match each skill with a course or activity and explain. How can you convey this knowledge to your students?
- What aspects of the workplace appealed to you? Why?
- What aspects of the workplace did you dislike? Why?
- What new perspective do you now have of this career choice?
- Is it necessary to continue to take courses to advance in this job?
- Do we motivate students to be life-long learners?
- Was prior experience necessary to obtain this job?
- Can the required work be accomplished at work or does the employee also work home?
- What training, skills, experiences would help students be better prepared to enter this career field?
- How can we develop the "soft skills" needed to be successful in the workplace?

Harbor City, New Jersey 00000
August 1, 2002

Mr. M. McFadden
Southern Ocean County Hospital
Rt. 9
Manahawkin, NJ 08050

Dear Mr. McFadden:

I am writing in response to a notice you placed in Saturday's edition of the Atlantic City Press. I was interested in the position that is available in the food service area. I have recently graduated from high school and have a strong interest in pursuing a food service career.

My school and experience should prove beneficial to your needs at the hospital. I have taken many electives in the food service area and will be attending Atlantic County Community College in the fall to major in culinary arts. Additionally, I have volunteered at the hospital for the past two years and am acquainted with your expectations.

I am available for an interview at your convenience. My home phone number is 609-111-1111.

Sincerely,

Maggie A. Owens

Dear Sir:

As you will see from my enclosed resume, I have many qualities that would be desirable in a security guard. My many leadership positions will attest to the fact that I am an honest person with a strong work ethic. Also, I am not only able to relate to many types of people, but can work well with them.

While I do not have experience in the security field, I am a willing learner and am able to start immediately. Furthermore, I am able to work any shift that you have available.

Please contact me if my resume is of interest to you.

Sincerely,

Maggie Owens

Mr. M. McFadden
Southern Ocean County Hospital
Rt. 9
Manahawkin, NJ 08050

Dear Mr. McFadden:

Thank-you for the opportunity to interview yesterday for the foodservice position you have available. I enjoyed meeting with you and learning more about Southern Ocean County Hospital's programs. You certainly offer many career opportunities and have a desire to help your employees advance themselves.

I am particularly interested in the educational incentives that you extend to employees. I would like to continue to advance myself and working at your hospital would give me the opportunity to do that. Your program would allow me to use the skills I develop at college to benefit the hospital while continuing to learn myself.

The interview confirmed the impressions I have developed about the hospital during the time I have volunteered there. I hope that you feel that my employment would be mutually beneficial to both of us.

Again, thank-you for your consideration. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Maggie A. Yekenchik

Prepare Beforehand:

- Look over common Interview Questions
- Research the background of the company
- Make-up your own questions
- Prepare your Pocket Resume
- Prepare a copy of your Resume
- Dress for Success: Choose the clothes you will wear
- Groom yourself: neat hair, clean hands and fingernails

Be Punctual

- Better an hour too early than a minute too late

Arrive Alone

- YOU are applying for the job- Don't be distracted by “guests”

Greet the Receptionist

- She is the doorway to your interviewer
- The interviewer often solicits her comments about your behavior in the waiting area

When Introduced Follow Introduction Protocol

- Make Eye Contact
- Use a Firm Handshake
- Wait to be Offered a Seat

Avoid Distracting Gestures

- Finger tapping, or nail biting will point out your nervousness

DON'T CHEW GUM, eat nor drink - ever!

Speak with Precision

- Slang should “wait” outside

Sit Upright and Be Alert at All Times

- A slouched body says I don’t care or I don’t feel like I belong here

Listen Carefully to the Questions

- Don’t answer before the interviewer is finished
- Ask for clarification
- Don’t argue or prove an interviewer wrong
- Elaborate answers- Yes and No won’t work!
- Don’t lie or exaggerate
- If you don’t know an answer, say so.
- Be part of the dialog- ask questions
- Don’t ramble

Be Yourself

Be Patient and Calm if not Hired on the Spot

Follow-up the Interview with a Thank-You Letter even if you aren’t hired

- A thank-you has often re-opened doors
